The leading resource for professional and student development, education, and research in collegiate recreational sports.

Annual Conference
Join us in Austin April 2-5, 2008!

Home to four founding members of the NIRSA, located in New Orleans in what is sometimes referred to as the Triangle, near Carrollton, Washington, and I-10.

17TH ANNUAL ERSL CONFERENCE

We are committed to the development of leadership programs, services, and resources to participants of this conference. The word "Emerging" rising above the black box symbolizes breaking through any imposed barriers. We invite you to step outside your own comfort zone to see what educational and leadership opportunities are waiting.

EMERGING RECREATIONAL SPORTS LEADERS CONFERENCE

February 8-9, 2008

Xavier University - Louisiana

EMBRACING THE PAST

ESTABLISHING CHARACTER TODAY

SETTING A MARK FOR THE FUTURE

17TH ANNUAL ERSL
CONFERENCE

Xavier University of Louisiana
February 8-9, 2008

1948

Dr. William Wasson's passion led him to conduct research on Intramural sports programs in southern Black Colleges.

1950

This initiative led to the birth of the NIA (National Intramural Association), a forum to study and exchange ideas to improve programs. The roots of the NIA and NIRSA are deep and very important in creating the organization we all invest in. The past gives way to the present and leads to the new horizons of our recreational profession

1992

Inspired by the same ideology, The Emerging Recreational Sports Leaders Conference, a forum for information exchange, education, discussion, critical communication and positive dialogue for those interested in the field, was created by Mike Dunn.
